Warm mix asphalt plant, Benoni

MUCH ASPHALT

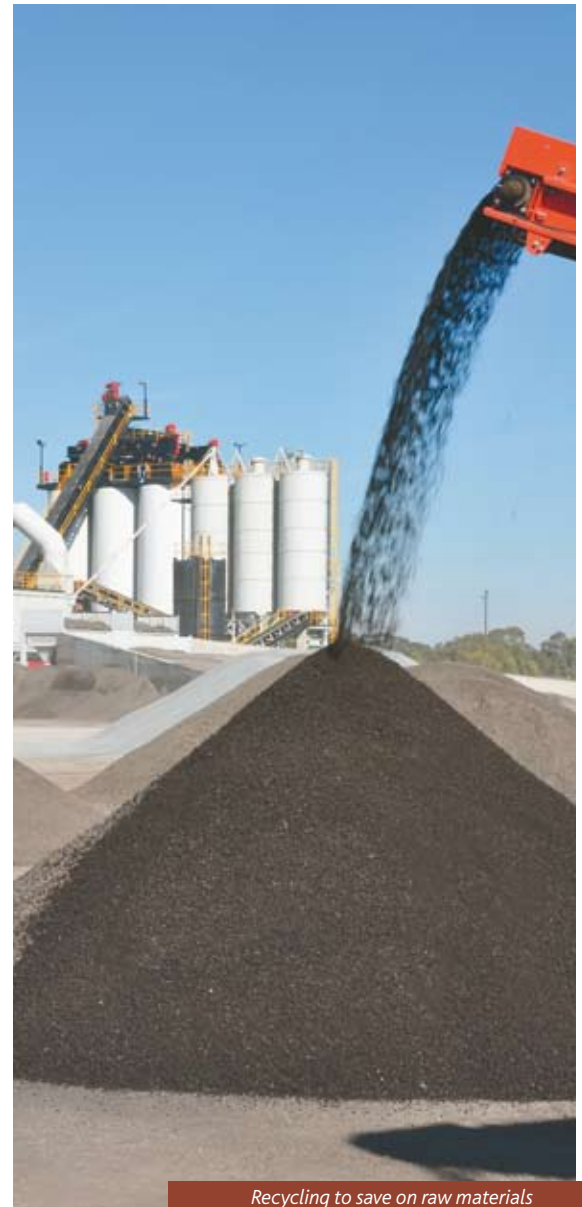

Much Asphalt is southern Africa's largest commercial supplier of hot and cold asphalt products to the road construction industry and also supplies airports, various municipal applications and even domestic asphalt requirements.

The company was established in Cape Town in 1965 and became a wholly-owned subsidiary of Murray & Roberts in 1986.

Today we have static asphalt mixing plants in all South Africa's major centres and several mobile plants to service remote projects. We are able to supply a wide variety of specialist and differentiated products and maintain close contact with our colleagues globally to ensure our products and services conform to world best practice.

A technical division provides specialist technical services and our SANAS accredited Central Laboratory in Cape Town allows us to develop new products, control test products, calibrate plant and offer testing services to our clients. All our plants also have their own dedicated process control laboratories.

Much Asphalt holds SANS 9001 – 2008 quality certification and is currently a Level 3 Contributor in terms of the DTI's Broad Based Black Economic Empowerment codes. Safety and environmental responsibility are non-negotiable on our sites and regular training is carried out for our own and customer staff to ensure understanding and compliance.

Recycling to save on raw materials

Much Asphalt's market leadership is based on:

- Its wide loyal customer base, consisting of national, provincial and local government and affiliated organisations, the private sector from large corporations to one-man businesses, and the public at large;
- Versatility and ability to supply a wide variety of specialist and differentiated products including UTFCs, UTLAs, Much Mix and many other products with highly modified binders, as well as Salphalt support coat and Micropave;
- The provision of specialist technical services through a focused technical division;
- The ability to develop appropriate, individualised solutions for clients;
- A regular training programme for asphalt users to ensure product quality along the whole value chain;

R300, Cape Town

- Our strong contribution internationally to the advancement of asphalt technology and the development of new products in response to ever more stringent quality, environmental, performance and longevity requirements;
- State-of-the-art technology developed in-house for the automation, operation and process control of our asphalt plants;
- Plant configurations selected from the world's best to ensure product quality while leading the local industry in the reduction of carbon footprint and emissions;
- A strong ethos of communication and relationship building internally between our employees and externally with our clients and suppliers, as evidenced through our brand essence, Together We Can.
